

What To Do After 12th?

One question that bothers every 12th passed student is what to do next? This is one of the most decisive moments of their lives. The decision which they take after passing their 12 board exam will stick with them all their lives. So, this decision should be taken after a lot of thinking and research.

All those students who score well in these exams rush to get into admission into the best Delhi University (DU) colleges. But for those who have not been able to make it to these colleges should not lose heart. There are many other avenues which one can explore.

These days, many professional colleges offering various kinds of professional courses have come up. If you think that you won't be able to get through any Delhi University College, you should opt for such courses. Students of commerce should devote some time on studies after their 12th board exam to appear in tests for graduation in BBA, BBS, BFI and many other such courses. To appear for these tests, one has to start preparing in advance. There are many coaching institutes that provide education material, training and lessons to help clear various entrance exams.
